(Hudson, Ohio, USA / June 29, 2009) – e-Read Ohio and Radcom, Inc. have collaboratively won the Award of Excellence for the online module, Adolescent Literacy in a Changing World. This is the top award in the Interactive, Education - Academic category.

The winners of the 15th Annual Communicator Awards were announced on May 29, 2009 in New York City by the International Academy of the Visual Arts. With over 7,000 entries received from across the US and around the world, the Communicator Awards is the largest and most competitive awards program honoring the creative excellence for communications professionals. Please visit www.communicatorawards.com to view the full winners' list.

“We’re delighted to have won this award honoring the creative team of content writers, instructional designers, developers, editors, videographers, technical support staff, and project managers who helped create this module to better educate teachers in literacy education of their students,” said Lisa Lenhart, Ph.D., director of e-Read Ohio.

e-Read Ohio and Radcom are also collaborating on a number of other online modules and course materials that expand on teacher literacy education and school leadership.

Ohio E-learning Collaboration Wins International Award for Teacher Education

The Communicator Awards are judged and overseen by the International Academy of the Visual Arts (IAVA), a 450+ member organization of leading professionals from various disciplines of the visual arts dedicated to embracing progress and the evolving nature of traditional and interactive media. Current IAVA membership represents acclaimed media, advertising, and marketing firms including: Condè Nast, Coach, Disney, The Ellen Degeneres Show, Estee Lauder, HBO, Keller Crescent, Monster.com, MTV, Polo Ralph Lauren, Sotheby's Institute of Art, Tribal DDB, Wired, Yahoo!, and many others. See www.iavisarts.org for more information.

“The quality, creativity, and execution of this year’s work are a true testament to the talents and abilities of communications professionals from around the world. The entries received reflect an increasingly diversified industry and the work once again sets the bar extremely high,” noted Linda Day, director of the IAVA. She added, “On behalf of the entire Academy, we are honored to have once again judged the 15th Annual Communicator Awards and we are proud to honor the outstanding communications professionals who continue to push a high standard of excellence.”
