(Hudson, Ohio, USA / December 16, 2008) – Radcom, a 12-year old professional consulting firm specializing in instructional design, e-learning, and technical communication, is moving to a larger office space. The new office at 561 Boston Mills Rd., Suite 400 in Hudson is more conveniently located for businesses in Northeast Ohio by being close to the turnpike exit at State Route 8 in Hudson. The new facility is 4,900 square feet and will be able to accommodate business growth and a new training service.

Radcom currently has a staff of 22 full and part-time professionals, some of whom are located at client sites throughout Northeast Ohio. “The staff at the current office has grown so much this past year, that we’ve had to carefully coordinate work schedules just to make sure people have a place to sit,” said Jill McCauslin, Radcom vice-president of Human Resources. She added, “The new office is much larger, more open, and designed so that we can expand as needed.”

“Radcom’s sales growth this year has been very encouraging,” said Bob Dianetti, president of Radcom. He added that, “We hope to assist Northeast Ohio businesses even further in our new facility by providing training services to help their employees work more effectively in this challenging economy.”

Radcom will host an official ribbon cutting for its new office on January 6, 2009 at 11 a.m. The Honorable Mayor William A. Currin of Hudson will preside.
